IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Consumer Agency Warns Against Being Overcharged for Deed Copies

Columbia, SC.....The South Carolina Department of Consumer Affairs (SCDCA) warns consumers against being overcharged for a certified copy of the deed to their home.

Unscrupulous companies have mailed official looking letters to property owners offering certified copies of deeds for an exorbitant fee, typically more than $50. Some websites even quote the Federal Government advising property owners to have a certified copy of their deed. Several upstate homeowners have contacted SCDCA reporting this activity.

It's important to note that property owners wishing to obtain a certified copy of their deed can do so at a cost of less than $5 from their county services department.

The need for a certified copy is negligible. In most cases property owners receive the property deed upon purchase, and records of such are recorded, preserved, and maintained at your local county office. However, if you wish to have a copy in case of loss or theft, you may do for a substantially less fee by contacting your local county services department. Consumer Affairs reminds consumers to keep all important and official documents in a secure location.
