Trinity Collegiate School Wins State LifeSmarts Competition

Columbia, SC... Trinity Collegiate School in Darlington will represent South Carolina in the National LifeSmarts competition. The team won the State LifeSmarts competition Friday, March 7, 2008, at Southern Lutheran Seminary on North Main Street. Daniel Seamans of WOLO-TV served as question master. The team will travel to Minneapolis, Minnesota, April 12-15 to compete against other teams from across the country.

SCDCA hosts the annual competition for students in 9th – 12th grades in order to test their knowledge of the following consumer areas: personal finance, health and safety, environment, technology, and consumer rights and responsibilities. LifeSmarts, established by the National Consumers League, resembles a game show, but the program's content is educational. The contest teaches consumer and marketplace issues and is designed to supplement classroom curriculum or be used as a learning activity in clubs and organizations outside the classroom.

LifeSmarts is open to all teens in 9th-12th grade. Teams may represent schools, churches, community groups, or even neighborhoods. For more information on LifeSmarts or how to create a team, contact 803.734.4190 or toll-free at 1.800.922.1594.
